County buoys hopes on master port plan

Port and Harbor Commissioners received a taste of life at sea Monday when returning from an inspection and orientation tour of proposed development areas in the yacht Doris M they were forced below by a severe squall.

Called to familiarize the board of supervisors and Army

Engineers with all aspects of the Hancock County port development project, the trip included a visit to both the Mulatto Bayou and Jordan River areas.

Phillip A. Koonce of Michael Baker, Jr., Inc., the commission's engineers, indicated proposed locations of channels, docks, industrial sites and land transportation areas at each location. Comparing this explanation with copies of the master plan, which he distributed, the group learned the scope and long range objectives of the commission's undertaking.

Making the trip were James A. Rester, state senator; Col. R.C. Marshall, Mobile district engineer, Corps of Engineers; Supervisors A. Dolph Kellar, Jack Lott and Charles J. Lavinghouse, Dr. A.K. Martinovich, Jr., Hancock port commission president and commissioners Joseph V. Colson, Otto Rester, Edward Schambach, Claude R. Graham and Elliot Casonavo, Jr.; Gerald C. Gex, Michael D. Haas, commission attorneys; Norton Haas, honorary port secretary; H. Hardin Shattuck, former Bay St. Louis Commissioner. Phillip A. Koonce and Cecil Palmer of the Baker firm and Leo Seal, Jr., president, Hancock Bank.

Kellar expressed the view of the three supervisors present just before disembarking at Pearllington when he said, "This project is of primary importance to the economy of our county and all we need to do now is to get started."

Before setting out on the trip the supervisors went on record approved the master plan for port development and authorized the commissioners to proceed with the initial development program. They also voted to pay the $13,500 bill from Baker for the study.

Col. Marshall also expressed favor towards the development and suggested several areas of investigation that could be followed by commissioners.

In the opening summary of conclusions on the master plan, Michael Baker, Jr., Inc., indicates the development of a deep water channel to the west county (Cont. on Page 7.)

MULATTO BAYOU - Edward Schambach, left, port and harbor commissioner, listens as Phillip A. Koonce of Michael Baker, Jr., of Jackson consulting engineers, explains proposed harbor development in Mulatto Bayou. Col. R.C. Marshall, Corps of Engineers, State Sen. James A. Rester, and Claude R. Graham, commissioner, are among group on orientation tour Monday.

2nd BAWI bond issue

City Commission Council this week gave notice of its intention to issue a $115,000 Balance Agriculture with Industry bond issue through the State Agricultural and Industrial Board for expansion of Industrial Electric, Inc.'s enameling plant here. The A and I board approved the plan last month.

Unless 20 per cent of the city's registered voters protest the proposal by 10 a.m. Sept. 9, no election will be required for the bond issue.

Principal and interest on the bonds will be met by Industrial Enameling Division of Industrial Electric, Commissioner of Utilities J. Cyril Glover explained. This is the same procedure under which Bay St. Louis voters approved overwhelmingly a $300,000 BAWI issue for Industrial Enameling's original plant in August, 1961.

Record entry is due at Bay High

Operation Share your Locker will be in full effect when Bay St. Louis High School students return to classes this fall.

With more registrations expected, 578 students have already enrolled, 108 more than last year. Working on the well-founded three to one ratio, educators expect an increase of between 250 and 300 students in the city school system's elementary grades.

Band, choral and physical education instruction rooms are being converted into regular classrooms to meet the influx, as are the library, auditorium and gymnasium study halls.

"Crowded conditions will prevail until the completion of our new high school eases the load," said J. D. McCulloch, city school superintendent.

Hancock North Central, more or less situated outside the zone of population impact from Mississippi Test Facility, has an increased enrollment of 17 after nearly one full week of school. Seven hundred and twenty-seven students are studying at the facility compared to 710 at the close of last year. These are split 229 in the high school, 120 in junior high and 378 in the elementary grades. The 1964 opening total was 686. With a few more students expected within the next two weeks, Chester, school superintendent, sees no big problems ahead.

"Some students still have scheduling problems but we should have all the kinks ironed out by next week, Blalock said Wednesday.

St. Joseph Academy has requested all students to register between 9 and 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. next Thursday and Friday, Aug. 26 and 27. Students will receive room schedules and textbooks and pay book rental and lab fees at this time, according to Sister Justin, principal.

Our Lady of the Gulf School registration will be at the same time and dates as St. Joseph (Cont. on Page 7.)

4th fatal listed at test site

A Queens, N.Y., man became the fourth construction fatality at Mississippi Test Facility when he died as a result of electrocution Friday, the 13th.

Peter Rappa, 33, who lived with his wife and children at a local trailer court, died at a Picayune hospital where he was taken after the mishap in the vicinity of one of the test stands.

NASA safety officials said cause of the accident is under investigation. They reported that Rappa, a laborer for Malan division of Koppers, Inc., was on the boom of a crane trying to pass under communication lines. He was lifting the line for the machinery to clear and was caught between the line and an overhead power line and was fatally shocked, it was said.

The accident occurred about 3:30 p.m. This is the second electrocution suffered in the construction phase. The other two fatalities were vehicular.

Bert Saunders, lawyer and investment consultant of Boston, Mass., Mexico City and Puerto Vallarta, Mexico and now of New Orleans, told the Echo yesterday.

It is scheduled for construction on the south side of U. S. 90 intersection on property being purchased from William R. Renshaw, Renshaw and Dr. T.A. Quigley.

The development will contain a 50 - 100 unit two-story motor hotel, a 75 - 100,000 square foot of interior space office tower and 50 - 100 garden type dwellings on an extended and enlarged beach.

The developers, Saunders, Thomas Jordan and William P. Bosworth, Jr., all of New Orleans, who form the New South Corp. of Mississippi, are acquiring the property for $285,000 and plan to spend another $50,000 during the initial development stage. This will be before construction commences.

"The object of the development," said Saunders on Wednesday, "is to provide Hancock County with a needed development and our final plan and size will be determined by demand and requirement. This is a growing area and we are attracted by its potential."

Saunders already has met with city commissioners to outline plans and objectives, and will discuss with them again today land elevations, discuss land preparation, water pressure and sewer availability.

The object is to build up all the area concerned above hurricane water levels. To per-

Hospital amends doctor's bylaws

Hancock General Hospital trustees tightened medical staff privileges at the hospital last Wednesday when they approved amendments to the doctors' bylaws which determine the duties of new staff members.

The board previously had postponed decision on the rules in order to examine and discuss them with the medical staff. Trustee Cornelius Ladner contended the new rules were too discriminatory and would discourage new doctors from coming to Hancock General.

Drs. Wesley McFarland and A.K. Martinovich, Jr., representing the medical staff, claimed a strict procedure in determining the abilities of new doctors seeking full staff privileges and a strict method of granting these privileges are necessary for the welfare of patients.

They further commented that the Commission on Accreditation had advised Hancock General to tighten its medical staff regulations to retain accreditation. Dr. McFarland pointed out that other hospitals along the coast had had similar and stricter rules as part of their by-laws for years.

On the motion of John Rutherford, board members approved the by-laws as they were drawn up by the Hancock General medical staff.

Trustees face milk supply problems

What dairies sold to what processors was made a major problem by trustees of Hancock County school system Monday.

The question came up in regard to contracts to supply milk to county schools. For some years, because of differing numbers of students, the system has rotated three suppliers from one school to another.

Trustee Eric Larsen indicated the board wanted to use the processors who bought their milk from Hancock County producers; however, a decision on this question was postponed. According to state Department of Health officials there are 27 milk producers in the county. Of these their records show ten sell to one processor; six to another; three to a third; and eight to various others.

To further confound the issue, trustees had little information on the identities and (Cont. on Page 7.)

Views of Guatemala

Talk about Southern hospitality! The 60-odd Mississippi-Louisiana Newspaper Adventurers who returned last Thursday from an eight-day tour of Guatemala discovered an even warmer brand in that Central American Republic.

But hospitality was only one of the things which made a deep impression on us.

We learned you don't have to leave spacious boulevards to move urban traffic at a rapid clip - you just need a compact car and a little daring.

We found an airstrip on hard-packed ground - such as we might find here in Hancock County - will handle all the DC3 and C46 planes you could wish. And we discovered one of the most precarious and rutty roads you could ever want to travel on the way by bus into the Indian village of Chichicastenango.

The Guatemalans make do very well with all these things but in the capital city there are things more modern. There is the multi-story Civic Center where the mayor and city council entertained the "periodistas norteamericanos" at an evening reception. We viewed the lights of the city from the open balcony on the top floor and inspected a modest and comfortable council meeting room.

National elections are upcoming there: next spring and generate as much advance interest as in the States. A leading candidate for the presidency met the press and the chief of state, Col. Enrique Peralta Azurdia, granted an interview to a limited group in his chambers at the national palace.

There is concern about "image" and Communism in this nation and the chief of state scorned the claim that Communist guerrillas operate there. He classified them as a small group of bandits with a leader whose principal claim to fame is that he robbed a United Fruit Co. store of $16,000 and disguises himself as a woman or a monk.

We spent a night at Hotel posada Belen in the old original capital of Antigua, a charming inn behind a yellow painted wall one might never think to stop at unless escorted there. In a huge converted church next door the Guatemalan Tourist Commission presented native folk dances that evening with the haunting music of a mirambas band echoing through the sanctuary. It was a fascinating evening and we met the cast at a reception afterwards.

Draft notice can be lifted

Persons receiving induction papers may request to be released from the draft providing they can show that another branch of the armed services is able to take them immediately, according to Mrs. Carl Ladner, clerk of Bay St. Louis selective service board.

The local board has received an order dated Aug. 5 calling attention to the provision which permits drafted personnel to request this exemption if they can provide the required evidence.

"A youth who wants to enlist and can make a satisfactory showing that an armed service or reserve component is ready to take him at once can request the state director to lift the induction order temporarily," said Mrs. Ladner.

If the state director refuses, the youth can appeal to the national director.

Card Of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS:
To those who worked so hard and gave so much to help make Gnu Maurigi's shooting match a success, a very humble and grateful thanks. It helped so much to defray some of the heavy burden of responsibility on our shoulders. It is a nice feeling to know that the space age hasn't taken away the neighborhood concern and helpfulness of their fellow man. Thanking you again for your all-around support. SIGNED: GONU, LOIS, AND CHILDREN.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank everyone for their kindness and consideration following our recent accident on Fenton road. SIGNED: MRS. JAMES A. LAGASSE, Jr., and DAUGHTER.

Bond Issue

The 25,000 square foot addition to the plant which is almost completed and the purchase of additional equipment.
Glover and City Attorney Dan M. Russell, Jr., were in St. Louis, Mo., last week to complete details for the issue with Charles and Trauernicht, bonding attorneys.
The St. Louis firm also is checking out the city's $3 million bond issue for its sewer and water improvement program. The federal government is buying the bonds and advancing the money on an interest rate of 3.58 per cent up to 75 per cent of the entire issue. At that stage—in about nine months—the issue will be advertised for sale and if a private concern bids .0125 per cent higher, then the issue must be sold to them.

Doctors

A special committee reported on opening bids Aug. 9 for consumable supplies for the hospital and trustees accepted the lowest bid on every item except floor wax which went to Zep Co. Bids of Barber Pure Milk Co., Cedar Lake Egg Farm and Orkin Pest Control also were accepted.
Administrator Thomas Logue reported that construction on the Pepperdine wing will be finished when electrical engineers completed a fire alarm system in the next few days.
Trustees decided to push collections on all bills over a year old and then turn them over to a collection agency if results are not achieved. Rutherford, treasurer, pointed out the necessity of collecting all old bills for the financial welfare of the hospital.
Upon the motion of trustee Clifton Saucier board members agreed to ask the city to blacktop an area in front of the hospital. Trustees noted that North Bay Elementary School will soon be in session and it is often impossible to get an ambulance through Dunbar Avenue when buses are loading. Rutherford pointed out that the additional area could be used for hospital and school parking at night.
Trustees also voted to re-advertise for bids on the proposed new hospital wing. Bids previously received had been too high.
Records showed the highest daily patient census for last month had been 38 with 16 the lowest daily load. In patient treatment was reported less for the past month with out-patient treatment being more.

The report states the long range plan should reserve a total of approximately 12,000 acres of land area for development as waterfront industrial districts. Locations for such developments are West Hancock County Harbor and Industrial Area, Mulatt Bayou South Hancock area, between Ansley and Lake Shore, Bayou LaCroix area on the bayou north of Clearmont Harbor, Jordan River area on the river at mouth of Bayou LaCroix, and North Hancock area on the Jordan River southeast of Kila.
Under the initial project section, the report recommends a 12-foot access channel, a rail spur and access road, public barge terminal facilities and at least 1,200 acres of land for industrial purposes.
Approximate cost of the initial project will be: land acquisition $722,250, other project costs, $1,345,908 for a total of $2,068,158.
Although the initial work is expected to be undertaken by a bond issue, such will not effect county taxation. The two mill ad valorem state tax allocated to the commission means the county can finance the initial development stage within the present levy structure.
In their final item of business for the day, harbor commissioners passed a resolution thanking Leo Seal Jr., for the use of his yacht and for operating the vessel throughout the day.

Skyline

form this task the developers intend to use their riparian rights and build a breakwater out to meet the deep water channel. Beach sloping on a gradual level will follow as will an increase in the elevation of Front Street and their land holdings.
"We are anxious to get started," said Saunders, "and have signed binding agreements with the property owners, we expect to be taking title in a week or so."
Eventual plans call for construction of a harbor, boat docking facilities and, as the developers have purchased or are in the process of purchasing additional land tracts, further area construction.

Vote

position in four of them—Stardustville, Rocky Hill, Flat-top and Standard. It garnered the most opposition in Waveland where 22 were opposed and 213 favored the move, and in City Hall with 21 opposed and 171 in favor.

Bay center gains store

Robert E. Wade of McDonald's will open a McDonald's restaurant at the intersection of Highway 90 and Main Street, Bay St. Louis, La. The store contains a square foot of merchandise space and has a 10-foot front and is 105 feet in depth.

Courthouse

beats, to build quarters for the supervisors and the circuit clerk. H.C. Dean of Beat 1 said most of the supervisors had already used the money to buy equipment.
The sheriff emphasized his need for more space to handle tax collections and auto tag sales, noting the latter began in October. In all of last year $851,954.01 was collected in the office with $598,236.40 in the first seven months. During the first seven months this year collections total $659,214.67.
He also called attention to painting of the main corridor recently completed with prisoner labor and asked permission to get extra-long ladders to paint the courtroom next week.
Rejection by the state tax commission of a homestead exemption application occupied most of the session. The board accepted the state findings in cases of Wallace J. Cameron, Charles L. Lee, Hollis R. Lee, Mrs. Alva B. Adams, Joel B. Adams, Caroline B. Argus, Mrs. Mildred D. Bobinger, Docia S. Braland, Thelma C. Celestine, Amanda N. Fayard, Victor T. Fouert, Roger B. Goss, Mrs. Berta R. Grant, William Hilliker, John J. Joyce, Horace Kergosien, Marguerite B. Kern, Angel J. Ladner, Ivy A. Ladner, John E. Landrum, Eunice C. McQueen, Gene A. Mitchell, Charles J. Moran, Frank J. Moran, Prather J. Necaise, C. J. Clifton Pearson, Margaret B. Peterson, Otto Earl Pope, Jacob R. Richmond, Juanita K. Ruppel, John D. Rutherford, Sidney Lee Saucier, Willie Sellers, Warren G. Seymour, Argle M. Shaw, James R. Shiyon, Mary T. Shorey, Ray W. Skinner, Walter S. Smith, Katherine K. Steele, Ruby W. Stevenson, Agnes C. Werling and Shelton V. Young.
Reasons for rejection ranged from no road and bridge privilege tax paid, exemption allowed in wrong school district, using the property for business, no title as of Jan. 1 or exemption on more than eligible, among others.
The board objected to state findings in cases of Mrs. Ruby Bisco who appeared to explain the automobile she used was actually owned by her mother in Louisiana; Emily Zimmerman, Anthony J. Benigno, Marvin A. Lee, Marvin K. Lee and James D. Frierson.

Milk problems

Living areas of milk distributors. Some, it appeared, lived within the county and some without. Adding the cream to the bitter-sweet question was the information that had been received by business Louis Necaise and Larsen that certain Hancock County distributors had been refused permission to ply their trade in Pearl River County, one of the dairies concerned is home based there.
It was eventually decided to let Superintendent Robert F. Ladner gather details for the board next session Saturday. In the meantime Borden's Dairy was to be given a temporary contract to supply Hancock North Central, the only school currently open.
Football field fencing at Hancock North Central kept trustees busy when it was discovered a breakdown of costs requested from bidders revealed certain additions had been made to cover requested financing arrangements.
Holcomb Fence Co. received the nod when it agreed to construct a seven foot outside fence, four foot inside fence and necessary goal posts for $4,162.80. Payment is to be $1,000 on completion of installation and the balance in November.
School bus drivers and their medical examinations next came up for review and Arthur Necaise, transportation supervisor, reported most of his 22 drivers had completed their required medical examination.
Board president Edward P. Orte took exception to the report however when he learned the medical had not included a cardiogram examination. "We must not let anything hinder the safety of our children," said Orte, "and I cannot see how a weak heart can be detected without a cardiogram."
On conclusion the board authorized Orte to contact local medical authorities to determine if a group rate can be obtained for such a check-up.
The lack of teacher accommodation at Hancock North Central also came under attack. Due to the shortage of housing, teachers it seems, are living in Poplarville.

Miss De Marcey is married to Mr. Artigues

Miss Marcia De Marcey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kidd, was married to Mr. Artigues, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Artigues of Bay St. Louis, in a single ring ceremony on Saturday at St. Maurice Catholic Church in New Orleans.

Father Adams officiated at the wedding while Mrs. Paul Lagan sang traditional nuptial selections. The church was decorated with white silk bows and fern on alternating pews.

Miss Lynn Davis of Arabi, La., was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Janet Ann Trapani of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the bride; Brenda and Jo Mary Artigues of Bay St. Louis, sister of the groom; and Julie Ann DiMartino of Arabi, La., cousin of the bride. Miss Colleen Campagna of Chalmette was flower girl.

Serving his brother as best man was Maurice J. Artigues of Metairie, La. Groomsmen were Kenneth Artigues of New Orleans, La., brother of the groom; James Mooney of Baton Rouge, La., brother-in-law of the groom; Roger Campagna of Chalmette, La., cousin of the bride; and Jerry Seuzeneau of Bay St. Louis. Ring bearer was Master Craig Artigues.

Ushers were Frank Trapani of Bay St. Louis, and A. DiMartino of Arabi, La., both uncles of the bride.

Following the wedding a reception was held at Cher's on Canal Street. The bride's table held a four tiered wedding cake trimmed with yellow decorations. Flowers and fern decorated the reception room.

The couple will be at home on St. George Street, Bay St. Louis, after a brief wedding trip.

standings. Merchants Bank and Coast Electric took third and fourth place trophies. Darrell Carlot walked away with smiles both top-stick and hurling awards. Randy Starita of Merchants was voted most valuable player, teammate Frank Wheat most improved, and Douglas Harrington of Coast Electric, sportsmanship. Equal awards went to two faithful bat boys, Mike Favre of 7-Up and Ricky Mitchell of Industrial, who won the same title last season.

Hancock Bank won the Pony League city championship token and Youth Center the runner-up award. Anthony Ladner took the moundsman trophy and Tommy Martin of Youth Center the batting award. Sportsmanship prize went to Mike Meyers of Hancock Bank and most valuable player to Claude Yarbrough Jr., of the Sea Coast Echo.

Men's play-off and city championship trophies were donated by the Parks and Play-ground Commission and American Legion. Other trophies were purchased by donations of local merchants and citizens including Magnolia State Supply, James Travirca, Monitor Panel Co, Dr. Wesley McFarland, Noland, Robert Ladner, Sylvan Ladner, W. General

A boat was seen in an old swampy tract and we saw the remains of the Indian mounds and the remains of the old plantation. The children begged for an American dinner as we knelt in prayer in the church. Down the street was another delightful inn, filled with handsome carved furniture, and owned by a travel agency for the convenience of tourists.

The waters of Lake Atitlan are really as blue as they say but even bluer viewed from the road high above it. Surrounded by volcanoes it was to us the most beautiful sight of the entire journey. The water itself is chilly but not quite as cold as the North Carolina lakes.

Tikal, one of the Mayan cities of 1,500 years ago now being dug out of the jungle, was another breathtaking wonder. We climbed through the huge ruins, saw the enormous reservoirs and artifacts of a once great civilization. Milton Cormier, B. C. H. business manager who was on the tour, wondered in how many centuries tourists will come to the United States to see the ruins of another civilization. In the jungle inn—it's strictly that—where guests stay at Tikal we passed through the guest register (a good American tourist habit) and found that Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Steimayer, former Wavelanders, had stayed there earlier this year.

As a guest of our host Aviatoca Airlines we played the course at Mayan Golf Club, a $1 million plus development

L.P. Ladner

Leon P. Ladner, 86, died Wednesday at his residence at Bayou La Croix.

He is survived by his wife, the former Angeline Seal, 11 children including Edgar and Edgar Ladner and Mrs. Deane Martin of Bay St. Louis; Albert Ladner, Baton Rouge; Mrs. Deane Hoda, Washington, La.; Mrs. Wayne Forness and Alvin Forness, Biloxi; Mrs. Michael Nease, Kilm; Misses Maude and Alice Ladner and Mrs. Jack Whitman of Bayou La Croix and 25 grandchildren.

The wake will be at Riemann Funeral Home at 6 p.m. today. Final arrangements are incomplete.

Frank Edel

Frank Edel, 75, brother-in-law of Mrs. Ada Edel of Waveland, and resident of New Orleans, died Aug. 4, in New Orleans.

Services were held at 4 p.m. on Friday at St. Clare's Catholic Church in Waveland with interment in Cedar Rest Cemetery. Riemann's Fahey-Whitfield Funeral Home handled arrangements.

MEDICAL INSURANCE

Major medical expense insurance protected 47,001,000 Americans by the end of 1964 and benefits amounted to $942,528,000.
